

LAW 7117 CONSTITUTIONAL LAW II
PROFESSOR SEGALL
SPRING SEMESTER 2010

Course Objectives: We will study federal constitutional law with an emphasis on individual rights and liberties and the special role of the federal courts in creating constitutional law. Topics to be studied include the nature of judicial review, economic rights, equal protection and due process.

Prerequisites: Constitutional Law I

Course Materials: Gunther & Sullivan, Constitutional Law, 16th ed.

Grading: The final examination will be 3 hours long. It will be an open book examination.

To arrange a make-up examination, students are to consult with Associate Dean Sobelson. The decision to allow students to take make-up examinations will be based on the policies stated in the College of Law Bulletin.

Office Hours: I have an open door policy. In addition, appointments can be scheduled by calling 413-9161.
