

Announcement

Annual Health Law Award

The Center for Law, Health & Society is currently seeking nominations for the annual Health Law Award, which is presented on Honors Day at the College of Law. This award is granted to the law student who demonstrates outstanding achievement in the area of health law.

Criteria:

The Health Law Award is based on outstanding performance by a law student across a range of criteria, including: academic performance in health law courses; writing in health law; and experiential learning (e.g. participation in clinics, externships, etc.) in the area of health law; as well as demonstrated commitment to health law through activities such as student organization leadership, health law related moot court participation, and other activities.

Award:

A monetary award and commemorative plaque will be given to the student selected for this award. Last year the monetary award was supported by the Health Law Section of the State Bar of Georgia.

How to Apply:

Nominations should be submitted to Professor Charity Scott at cscott@gsu.edu. Self-nominations and nominations by others are accepted. Nominations should address how the nominee meets or exceeds the criteria required for this award.

ALL NOMINATIONS ARE DUE BY NOON ON TUESDAY, JANUARY 17, 2012.
