

Georgia State University College of Law Adjunct/Part-Time Teaching Opportunities

Georgia State University College of Law is currently seeking adjunct/part-time faculty who are interested in teaching a variety of courses in our upper-division program to begin as early as the 2023-24 academic year.

Adjunct/Part-Time faculty are responsible for developing course curricula, including the syllabus, lesson plans, and graded assignments, in accordance with the requirements of the upper-division program and in consultation with the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs. Courses may be conducted in various delivery modes, such as, face-to-face, on-line, hybrid and/or blended formats. In addition, adjunct faculty are responsible for student evaluation, and timely and accurate submission of required paperwork related to instruction. Positions require additional time outside of class to provide written feedback to students and to meet individually with students throughout the semester. Adjunct faculty may teach in the fall, spring, and/or summer semesters.

Part-time faculty are temporary and are appointed as needed. Time of service with a part-time appointment may not accrue to time for a regular appointment with or without tenure.

Applicants will have a J.D. or foreign equivalent and demonstrate a track record or promise in teaching. Applicants should apply with a statement of interest (including area of teaching interest), full resume, and list of references.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until positions are filled. To ensure full consideration, please submit your application by June 1, 2023, to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/24414>.

For any questions you may contact the Office of the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, lawadaa@gsu.edu or the College of Law Human Resources Office, lawhr@gsu.edu. Due to the volume of applications, only candidates selected for an interview will be contacted.
