Engaging Diversity: Pathways to Bioethics for Minority Students

7/1/19-6/30/21

Role: Class Instructor

Greenwall Foundation

This project created a model undergraduate bioethics course that: (1) gives minority students a deep understand of bioethics problems salient to their communities, (2) highlights real-world projects by minority physicians and researchers to address these problems, and (3) supports students through mentoring and research opportunities. All students will be better able to identify and respond to bioethics problems, regardless of their career choices.
